Ship ahoy, mates, and climb aboard the S. S. Weaver! The '51 PORTAL swings open this year as a "porthole" through which you and posterity may view the illustrious exploits of our cherished high school days. This three-year cruise upon the sparkling seas of education and maturity has seemed an experience almost too wonderful for expression. However, the Board hopes this classbook, by phrase, picture, and paint, captures in essence fond memories of the voyage . . . long, serious hours of class study, unforgettable thrills on the playing field, club activities with widespread interests, proms of inimitable splendor, the terrific trip in general we've each enjoyed. Yes, it's been a determined, fun-filled journey, but just the start along life's winding route. As we leave our craft now to launch new plans amid waters restless and ominously dark, pray that ours will be a world illuminated by the time-tested beacons — Knowledge and Understanding, Freedom and Peace. Then, we shall look back always at the little green and white bark and say: "You served us well."

To one and all . . . bon voyage!

WEAVER DEDICATES THE 1951 PORTAL TO . . .

MISS MAE DRESCHER . . . who leaves an indelible impression of efficiency, sweetness, and sincerity upon all those with whom she has come in contact. Hers has been a genuine desire, through conscientious effort in and outside of classroom study, to fully prepare us for the future. Not only have her history courses been brisk and enlightening, but as well she richly deserves much credit for behind-the-scenes work in the smooth operation of the Projection Squad, one of the most vital school organizations. Weaver is extremely fortunate to possess such a fine teacher, highly admired and respected by the Class of 1951, who heartily wish for the continued happiness and achievement of Miss Mae Drescher.

Seniors on Projection Squad

MR. F. ELIOT LARRABEE . . . an outstanding teacher, a talented leader, and a grand person. Through the years, his English classes have been filled with lively discussion, valuable philosophy, and quaint humor. As PORTAL editorial advisor, he has, by brilliant guidance and ability, aided immensely in producing classbooks of everlasting worth and substance. Then, too, the wonderful success and spirit of Class Night result from his expert handling and arranging of the program. However, above all, it is the generous assistance, the personable friendliness, the congenial warmth which we, the Class of 1951, shall always remember embodied by Mr. F. Eliot Larrabee.

THE GOOD SHIP WEAVER

Through the Seas of Education
We have sailed for many years,
And the straits have oft been stormy,
And the crew had many fears.
Aboard the S. S. Weaver High School
With our journey almost through,
Now it seems despite the hardships
That the years have been too few.
But from the galley to the cabins
Of the good Ship Weaver High,

(Room 300 to the lunchroom)—
All the crew may say goodbye,
For the ship is steaming onward
And there looming in the dark
Is the Port of Graduation
Where the crew must disembark.
There some greater cruise confronts us
And some further ports await.
For we must leave the S. S. Weaver
For the Vessel of Our Fate.

Mr. William F. Aitken

For want of better words, the Class of '51 offers a simple: "Thanks" to Principal William F. Aitken. Behind this deep appreciation lie recollections of his faith in the students and his sincere devotion to Weaver, of the spirited rallies and assemblies he led, and of the Junior City Council and the school Student Government he so strongly supported. Mr. Aitken's pride in the school, his warm tolerance, and his personal integrity have greatly inspired all of us. In '48, we set out side by side, a new skipper and a green crew. Owing largely to his fine skill and efforts, it has been, for the most part, smooth sailing. Together, we've ridden through the rough spots, enjoyed our victories, and turned out some prospective captains among us.

Therefore, as we set sight on new horizons, it is with a touch of sadness and admiration that we bid a great skipper farewell.

It seems but yesterday that the Class of 1951 came to Weaver, a green crew, ready for a new venture. In the three short years that you have been here, your class has steered a good course making contributions of worth and significance to your school.

In this classbook message I want to extend the good wishes to each of you that it will be impossible to do personally on your graduation day. Wherever you take your place in the world of tomorrow, I hope that you can each contribute your share toward a better society, facing each new venture with enthusiasm, intelligence, and a high regard for your fellowmen. Though we bid you farewell as undergraduates, Weaver greets you as new alumni. We will always follow with interest your progress in life, and we wish success and happiness for each of you.

WILLIAM F. AITKEN

Principal

Mr. Ezra Melrose

Vice-principal, math teacher, and friend, Mr. Ezra Melrose takes a sincere interest in all students, helping them individually with any problem. As a teacher, he is tops! We who have been in his classes shall always remember his clear, concise explanations, his patience, and his untiring effort. Under Mr. Melrose's supervision, the Boys' Club has taken rapid strides during the past three years. Often seen working busily at his desk, he is never too busy to see someone seeking advice or information from him.

We shall always remember his radiant warmth and understanding.

BOYS' CLUB OFFICERS

Sincere, sagacious, and sympathetic can best describe Miss Goodwin, our Dean of Girls. Her guiding hand has led the way to success for many of the girls, and forever is she beside us with kindness and interest. She has been our inspiration to do well, giving us encouragement to strive forward and warmly praising our accomplishments. Through her constant aid and guidance, the Girls' League continues to be one of the outstanding school organizations.

Appreciation and affection accompany our regretful farewell.

IN MEMORIAM

Mr. Melvin G. Crowell

Mr. Melvin G. Crowell was an English teacher of whose classes every one of his pupils was proud to be a member. We shall always remember him as a man with high standards of intellectual integrity, flawless taste, sound judgment, and an appreciation of things that really matter . . . a man respected and admired by students and teachers alike because of his deep love for truth and beauty . . . a man whose wonderful influence will remain for many, many years to come.

Mr. Henry A. Hanson

Through the death of Mr. Hanson, Weaver lost an ideal teacher. He had an avid interest in his pupils and in return the pupils admired him. He was soft-spoken, but was always heard and respected. Mr. Hanson did his utmost to help "Beavers" adjust themselves to life outside of school. We Weaverites shall always remember his warm smile and genial companionship.

FOOTBALL

Turkey dinner tasted much better on Thanksgiving Day, owing to a thrilling 13-13 draw with our arch rivals from H. P. H. S. The fierce contest climaxed the spirited determination of this year's "Green" squad, a team hampered by inexperience and crippling injuries, as proven by their 2-5-1 record. However, Weaver's eleven fought back gamely throughout a season of formidable odds.

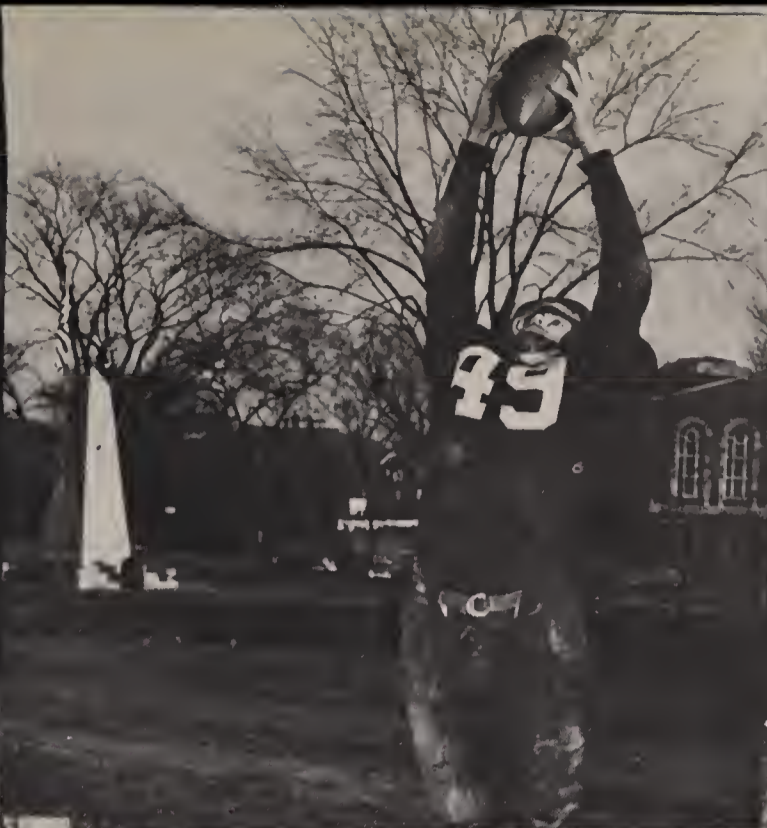

It exhibited a strong ground attack which employed a newly-used T formation, spearheaded by scatback "Beebe" Coleman's electrifying runs and by the steady field leadership of quarterback Emelio Del Mastro. Largely responsible for holding mighty Bulkeley to an unimpressive 12-0 score was some brilliant line play. Here, co-captains, Val Magro and Clarence Whitehead, Jerry Levinson and Moe Moshovos consistently sparkled on defense. Coach Horvath can be proudly satisfied with his lads, and he hopefully looks toward a returning host of lettermen next fall.

CROSS COUNTRY

Working with a team almost entirely composed of juniors and sophomores, Coach Ted Wilson turned in a fair cross-country season. Had there been another consistent performer or two to join the brilliant Dave Biederman and Oscar Beckman, success might have been much greater. These two leather-lunged harriers, by repeated top place finishes, carried the squad along. However, not to be overlooked was the fine work of newcomers Paul Lewis, Brian Barrabee, James Nanni, and Elliot Cramer. Displaying a hot and cold record all year, the Cross-Countryteers finally "hit their stride" in the state meet with a remarkably good sixth place.

Beckman

Such experienced material will serve as a strong foundation come September.

BASKETBALL

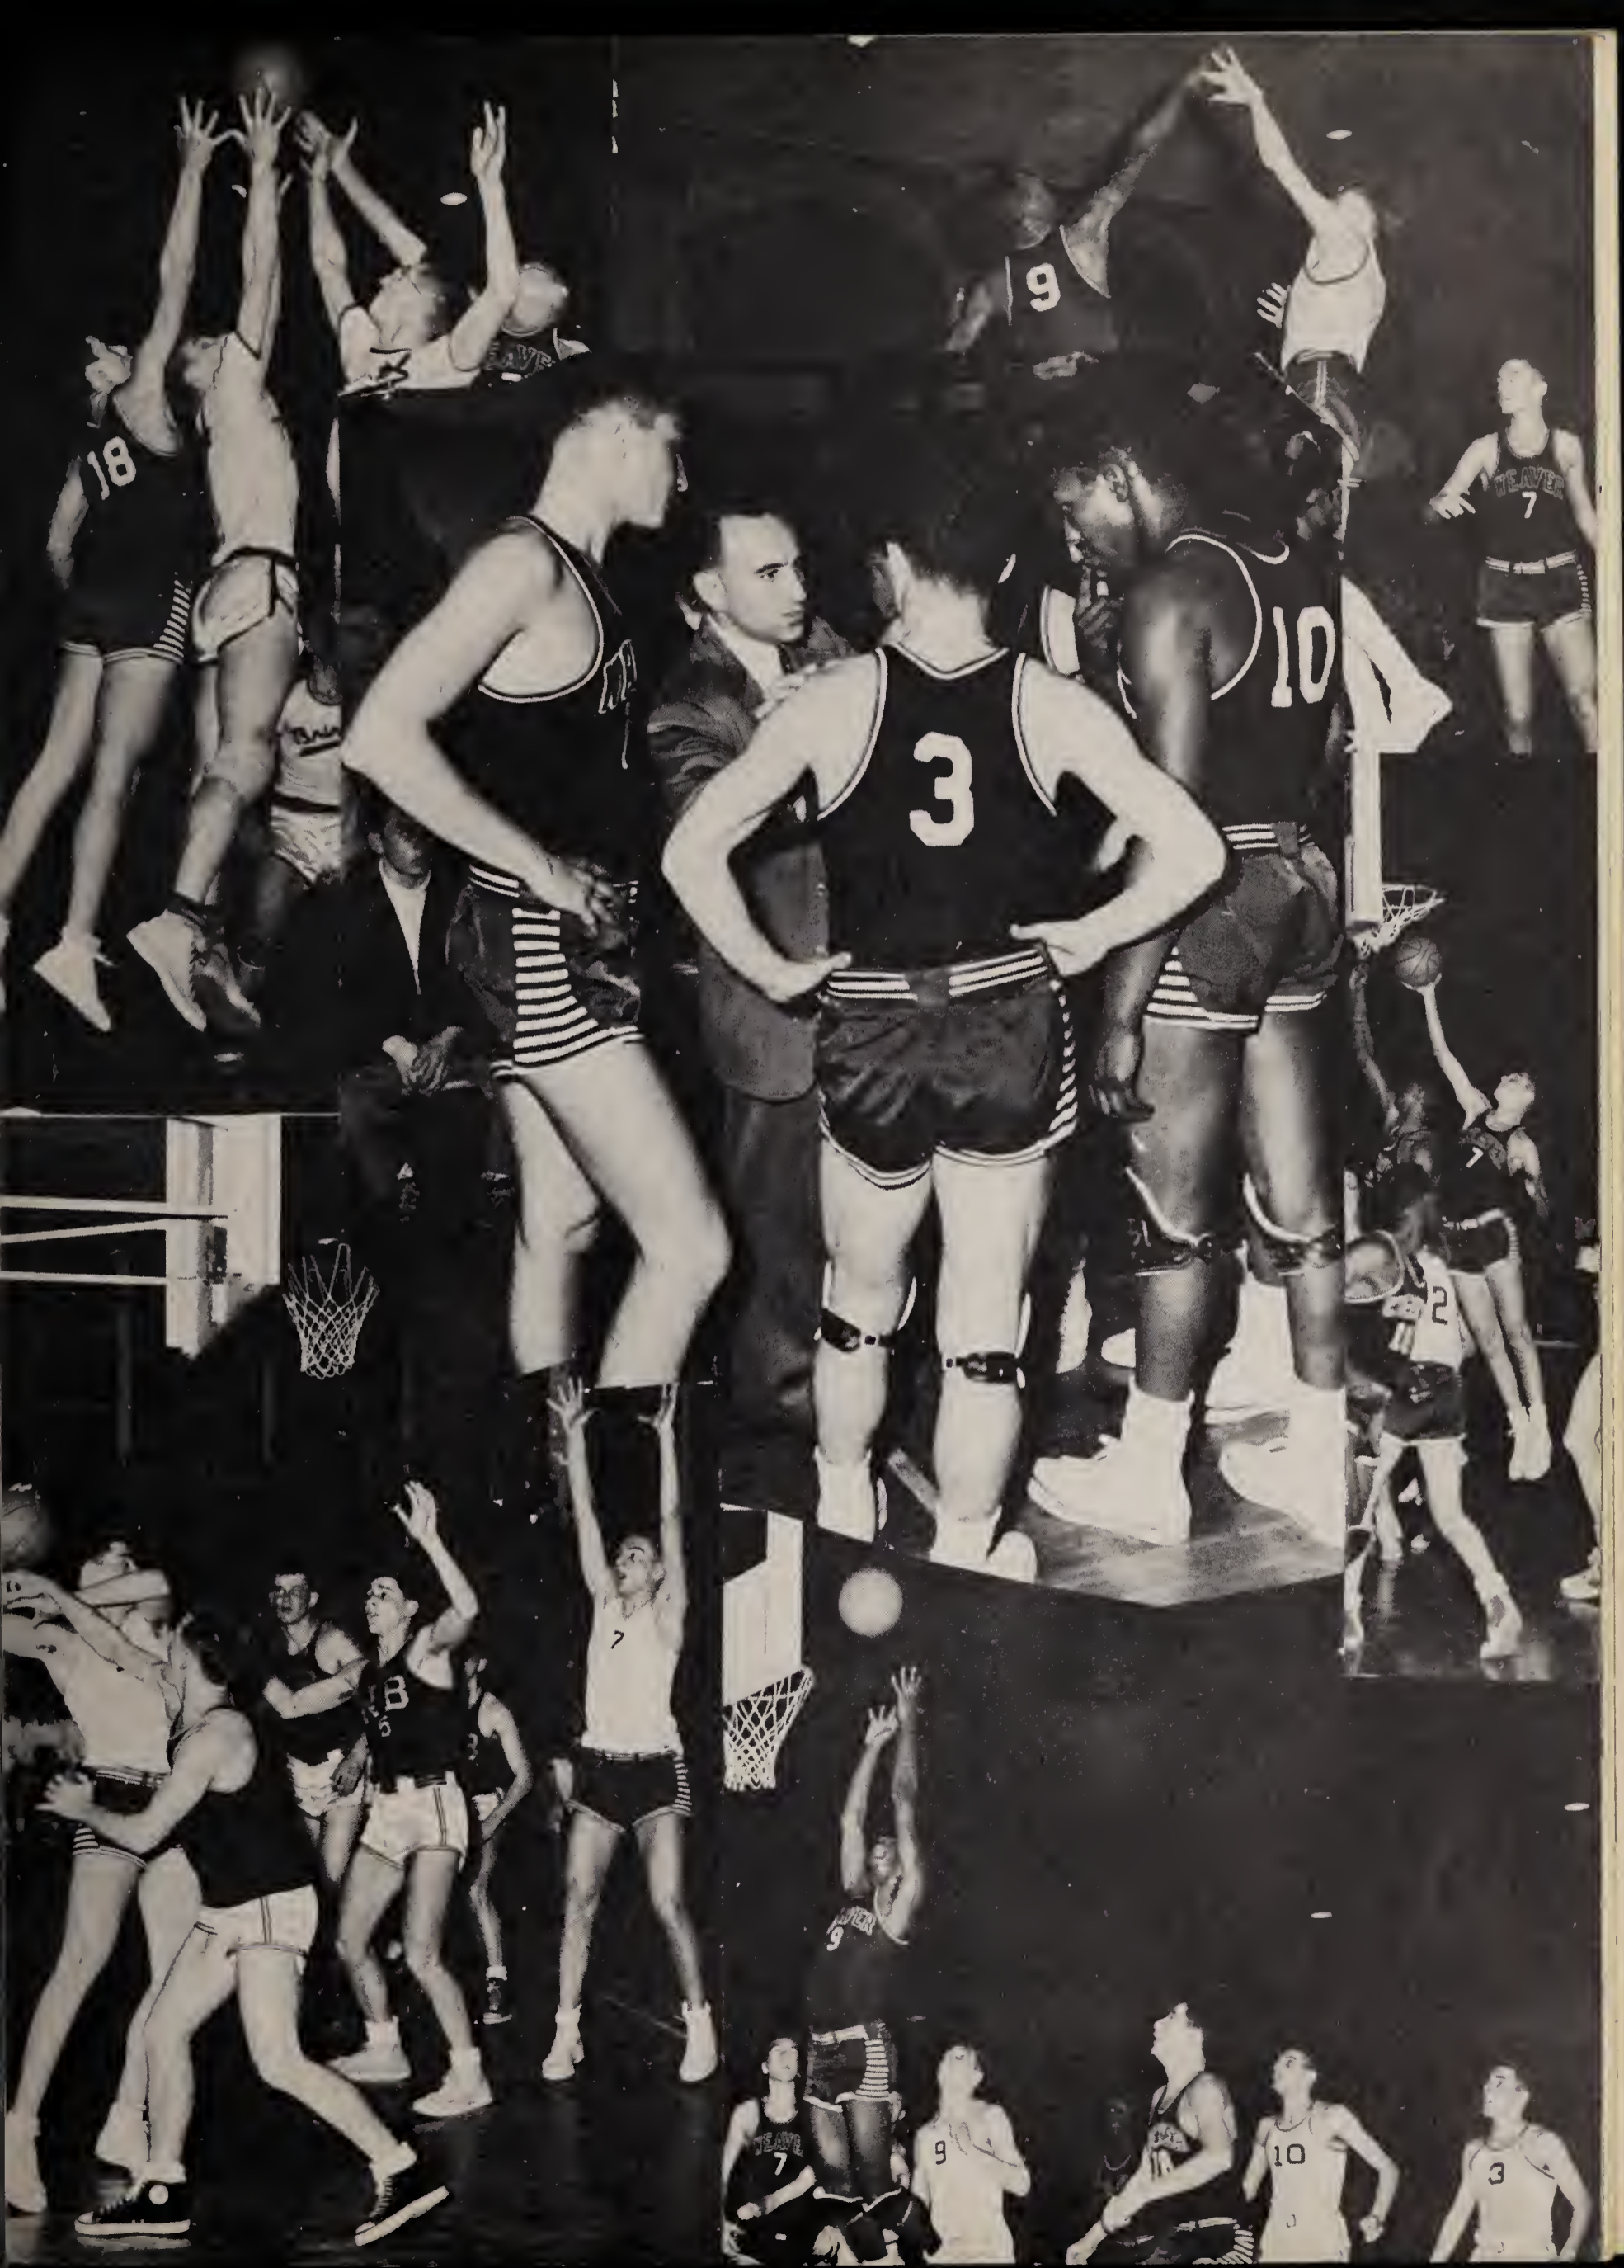

Everyone of us will always proudly remember this year's hoopsters—a truly great, if not the finest basketball combine in the history of the school. The big Green rang up twelve consecutive thrilling wins before dropping an unforgettable heartbreaker to Bulkeley, 39-38, and thereby only tying for the city series championship. After two more snappy victories, they lost a disappointing finale at New Britain. Still, the glittering record of 14-2 stands out as an accomplishment perhaps never to be achieved again.

You couldn't have asked for more impressive height or natural ability! Throughout the season it was towering Mickey Yellin, holder of a new district scoring record of 264 points and spunky little Mario Sottile, the team's brilliant spark-plug, who consistently led the onslaught. Can we ever forget also ace rebounder, Captain "Turk" Cuyler, deadly, hook-shooting Tom Foley and the steady Joel Gordon, who rounded out the starting five? Not to be overlooked is Weaver's strong bench of Dick Watson, a defensive crackerjack, set shot "Doodles" Kelliher, scrappy "Bee Bee" Coleman, and jumpin' Johnnie Carter. Coach Charlie Horvath produced a cool, smooth ball-handling, fine-shooting aggregation whose biggest asset was an excellent display of teamwork demonstrated almost every step of the way.

Long will it be before the cheers and excitement of the games fade from mind and to you lads on the team, a hearty salute for a job well done on the S. S. Weaver!

GIRLS'

With the enthusiastic help of her thirty-four leaders, Miss Whitney was able to start the girls' athletic year off with a "bang."

Out-of-door sports started the year rolling, and continued longer than anticipated, because of the prolonged moderate weather. Classes were held on the football field and activities such as speedball, volleyball, and archery were conducted by the "Able-Bodied Leader Corps." Carol Islieb, alias "volleyball girl", was one of the outstanding instructors in this sport.

Chilly days finally forced the girls inside, and exercises and folk dancing became popular. "Judy" Paull showed her colors at folk dancing, and her previous knowledge of the dance made her a graceful A-1 instructor. A person peeking in on the gym on these days might have found a girl doing a hip-roll or the Mexican waltz!

SPORTS

Next on the list of indoor activities were basketball, badminton, tumbling, volleyball, and individual games. Greenhorns in tumbling were made experts by the instructions received from Leaders Joan Reilly, "Bea" Lee, Joy Fontana, and Joanne Pelletier. Carol Islieb, with a new alias, "basketball girl", proved to be twice the demon that she was in volleyball! The skills achieved at this time were to be put to use in Sport Night.

Warm, fair weather returned, and classes were again held outside. Spring activities included archery, badminton, softball, volleyball, tennis, and roller skating. Eleanor Hoffman demonstrated, by the whiz of her arrow, how the year just flew by!

No girl will ever forget Miss Whitney's favorite sentence, "Don't forget to register with Mrs. Pounds," nor Mrs. Pounds', "All right, girls, upstairs!"

a great hulk of wood—the S. S. WEAVER

Time: 100 A. G. (After Graduation)

Setting: The entire surface of the earth is now covered by water, owing to a complete change in atomic structure. We are standing on the deck of a small boat from which we shall begin a strange and fascinating deep sea tour. We now join a group of people adjusting their oxygen masks and at last start down on an underwater track through the cold, swirling waters that were once the Atlantic Ocean, Long Island Sound, and Connecticut River.

Many strange creatures and colorful bits of foliage dot the ocean floor and then suddenly, straight ahead we notice a great hulk of wood. It seems to be a sunken ship, which at closer range bears the large, green letters: S. S. WEAVER. Hmmm . . . strange name for a ship, but let's join the crowd already boarding the mysterious craft. Once on deck, we are directed to a cabin with a door clearly marked: William F. Aitken, Captain. Curiosity gets the best of us, so here we stay to read the Log while the others continue the inspection. As we open the wooden cover and glance through the yellow, dust-covered pages, the first item we notice is:

"SOPHOMORE YEAR . . . September 1948 . . . this year marks a decided change in the staff of the S. S. WEAVER. Not only are there new members of the crew, but also a new Captain—William F. Aitken, who has succeeded Frank H. Burke . . . The first day aboard, the young, expectant faces of the crew turn toward the captain as he offers a few words of welcome and introduces several of the officers . . . The new class is soon in the swing of things. Friendship is the keynote of the Senior-Sophomore party, an annual event sponsored by the Girls' League to welcome the new female members. After a delightful fashion show, the girls have an opportunity to become acquainted over cider and cookies in the mess hall . . . over 800 climb aboard our ship to attend the C. S. P. A. Convention in October. Many interesting speeches leave all attending with a better conception of journalism in general. It was wonderful to have been host to such a fine group!

"Coach Norm Daniels of the S. S. Wesleyan is guest speaker at the football rally held before the annual Thanksgiving Day game. What a delicious turkey dinner we have this year! Of course, winning the game might have had a little something to do with it! . . . Another athletic boost is the dedication of the Philip R. helped by Nature Boy, the trombone-playing shmoos, and our illustrious Maharajah of Magador . . . Somewhat in the form of a Christmas gift, the Boys' Club is presented to the male population. This organization will be advised by Mr. Ezra Melrose and led by fellow crewman, James Carabillo . . . 'Who are you going with?' 'Is he nice?' 'What are you going to wear?' Yes, you guessed it, a formal dance is approaching. 'The Snowflake Fantasy', better known as the Goodwill Formal, looks like another gala occasion . . . Near the end of January, the crew change to rabbits and bound merrily to the gymnasium to enjoy their 'Sophomore Hop' . . . ficers, all assemble in the auditorium for brief entertainment . . . Members of the S. S. WEAVER, along with the general public, are treated to an excellent concert by the Hartford Symphony Orchestra. Some of the crew act as usherettes and ticket-takers.”

As we continue, we are aware that: “. . . The S. S. WEAVER has endured the storms of life for 25 years. It seems remarkable, but then each successive crew has taken part in its preservation . . . the final event of the year, the Senior Reception, is attended by only the luckiest of sophomores.”

Reading further in the pages of the Log, we come to a section entitled: “JUNIOR YEAR . . . Several new officers have come aboard. Mates Lillian Erickson, Charles Horvath, and Clayton Shufelt are all very much admired and respected already . . . Something new and different has been added in the form of a Junior City Council, and several fine candidates are elected . . . Today, the entire crew had a treat when the “Mind Your Manners” radio program was presented. For weeks to come we shall all display our best manners. (Wha’ happened!) . . . The inspiring Christmas-Chanukah assembly will always hold a special place in our hearts . . . There usually must be some sad news with the good, and we all certainly turn thumbs down as Captain Aitken announces hour-long, semester examination. How can we possibly study for exams when we have to watch a former crewman, Gino Sambuco, on T. V.? . . . Did George Washington sleep in our gym last night? The whole place is decorated with cherry trees. After being hit on the head with a hatchet, we realize Washington’s Birthday was the theme of our wonderful “Midwinter Hop”

CLASS HISTORY

... 'Only when the doors of the world are thrown open to everyone, can there be true peace and harmony'—The words of Mr. Clarence Chatto, speaker at the brotherhood assembly, are well worth remembering.

"'Ouch that hurts!' is a phrase heard frequently as we Juniors get our T. B. shots. 'What's a little needle, anyhow,' says a brave fellow just before fainting . . . The biggest event of the year is on hand now, and we're all looking forward to the time of our lives. Ah, yes, we smell the fragrance of 'Blossom Time', an appropriate title for our Junior Prom, reigned over by King Emilio DelMastro and Queen Theresa DiMella. The next page of our log is quite blank—It was a great dance! . . . A spot of tea, anyone? The Junior Tea turns out very well, although almost everyone is drinking coffee! Somebody must have been reading about the Boston Tea Party in history class."

Written boldly across the next page is: "... 'Blue Team Wins Sixth Annual Sport Night'. It was a great fight of clean sportsmanship and fun . . . Pages upon pages can be devoted to the fine work of the musical organization under the direction of Messrs. Weston Brockway and Willard Green. We'll simply say 'thanks' for their contribution to our journey . . . Now, as we close the cover of our Log until next year, we bid 'Bon Voyage' to our senior friends, who are leaving their stations to us. We also bid farewell to Miss Agnes Hogan and Mr. Melvin Crowell, who are retiring from the S. S. WEAVER after 26 years of faithful service.

"SENIOR YEAR . . . September 1950 sees our entrance over the S. S. WEAVER's gangplank once again, this time as seniors. The most wonderful year of all is about to begin . . .

Sport Night—clean sportsmanship and fun

The Dramatic Club reorganizes with plans for a spring production . . . We are all deeply saddened to hear about the passing of Mr. Henry Hanson and Mr. Melvin Crowell and rather disappointed that Mate Weston Brockway is resigning. However, we are happy over the arrival of Mate Reginald DeVaux . . . The football team gets off to a promising start, but due to injuries and inexperience ends the season with a 2-3-2 record. Nevertheless, all enjoy a thrilling Thanksgiving game . . . At our Armistice Day assembly, the American Legion presents the S.S.WEAVER with a beautiful American flag and pole for Batterson Field . . . A Student Council form of government is overwhelmingly accepted by the crew, and Arnie C. Greenberg is voted president in the initial election.

"The finest basketball team in many a year emerges this season, led by Mike Yellin and Mario Sottile, and it garners a tremendous 14-2 record. Going on to the tournaments, The Big Green, after trouncing Ansonia, looms as a top contender, only to drop a close 68-64 decision to Warren Harding . . . A long-hoped-for plan is finally realized when a Driver Education Course is instituted . . . tainment at the Senior Banquet . . . Class Night, conducted by President Johnnie Carter, proves a great success, and after the program, we receive the long-awaited Portal of '51 . . . The gym is completely transformed on the night of the Senior Reception. Maybe it's the colored lights or the music or the formality of being conducted through the receiving line by the Junior ushers. Maybe it's just that it's June and the end of our glorious years aboard the S. S. WEAVER.

Anyway, it's been marvelous and everyone has had a terrific time . . . Finally, the crowning night of graduation from the S. S. WEAVER arrives, and we take with us all that has gone before—memories we can never forget!"

Having finished our study of the Log of the S. S. WEAVER and its hardy crew, we seek the rest of our group. We find them in the large auditorium where abundant evidence still remains of a grand celebration long ago. Papers strew the floor and what appear to be graduation caps and gowns lie here and there! This is the end of our tour, and as we stand viewing the remains, we sense a quiet serenity, a feeling of peace and contentment. It must have been quite a voyage!

A very vital and necessary part of life aboard the S. S. Weaver came from extra-curricular functions of clubs and other outside activities. Here, in a spirit of good fellowship, the Weaverite had an opportunity to pursue his favorite hobbies or pastimes and exert some individuality. Each organization required faculty sponsorship, but was entirely formed and run by the student members. Each group met either during the busy activity period or after school. These hours, filled with constructive effort and refreshing sociability, will long be remembered by all those participating. More than giving needed relaxation and diversion from our tedious routine of study, the clubs indirectly laid a basis for creating better, well-rounded personalities and future citizens.

Variation of program was certainly offered. Five organizations included practically every Weaver Crewman — the Girls' League, the Boys' Club, The "Lookout", the Student Government, and the Hartford Junior City Council. Then came the language, science, commercial, art, and home-making clubs which tied in with definite school studies and offered a culturally, entertaining outlet for each particular subject. Service rendered by the Honor Society, the Projection Squad, and the Junior Red Cross aided immensely in our journey. The athletic activities such as the Boys' and Girls' Leader Corps and the sparkling contribution of our renowned musical organizations complete a brief outline of the Weaver Club picture.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Portal Board would like to sincerely thank those who have so willingly aided in the successful preparation of this classbook. Our deep appreciation is extended to: Mr. Roger Ratto and Mr. John Vignoli of Photo-Reflex Studio, which did most of the photography; Mr. Randy Brown of Jay Publishing Co., printers; Mr. Jack Goss, who supplied valuable pictures; the following Weaver artists, ably guided by Mr. John Preu; Florine Teal, Bernard Schneider, Audrey Lesser, Barbara Gold, Valerie Santacroce, Judith Tollin, Richard Maselek, and Carole Hanna.

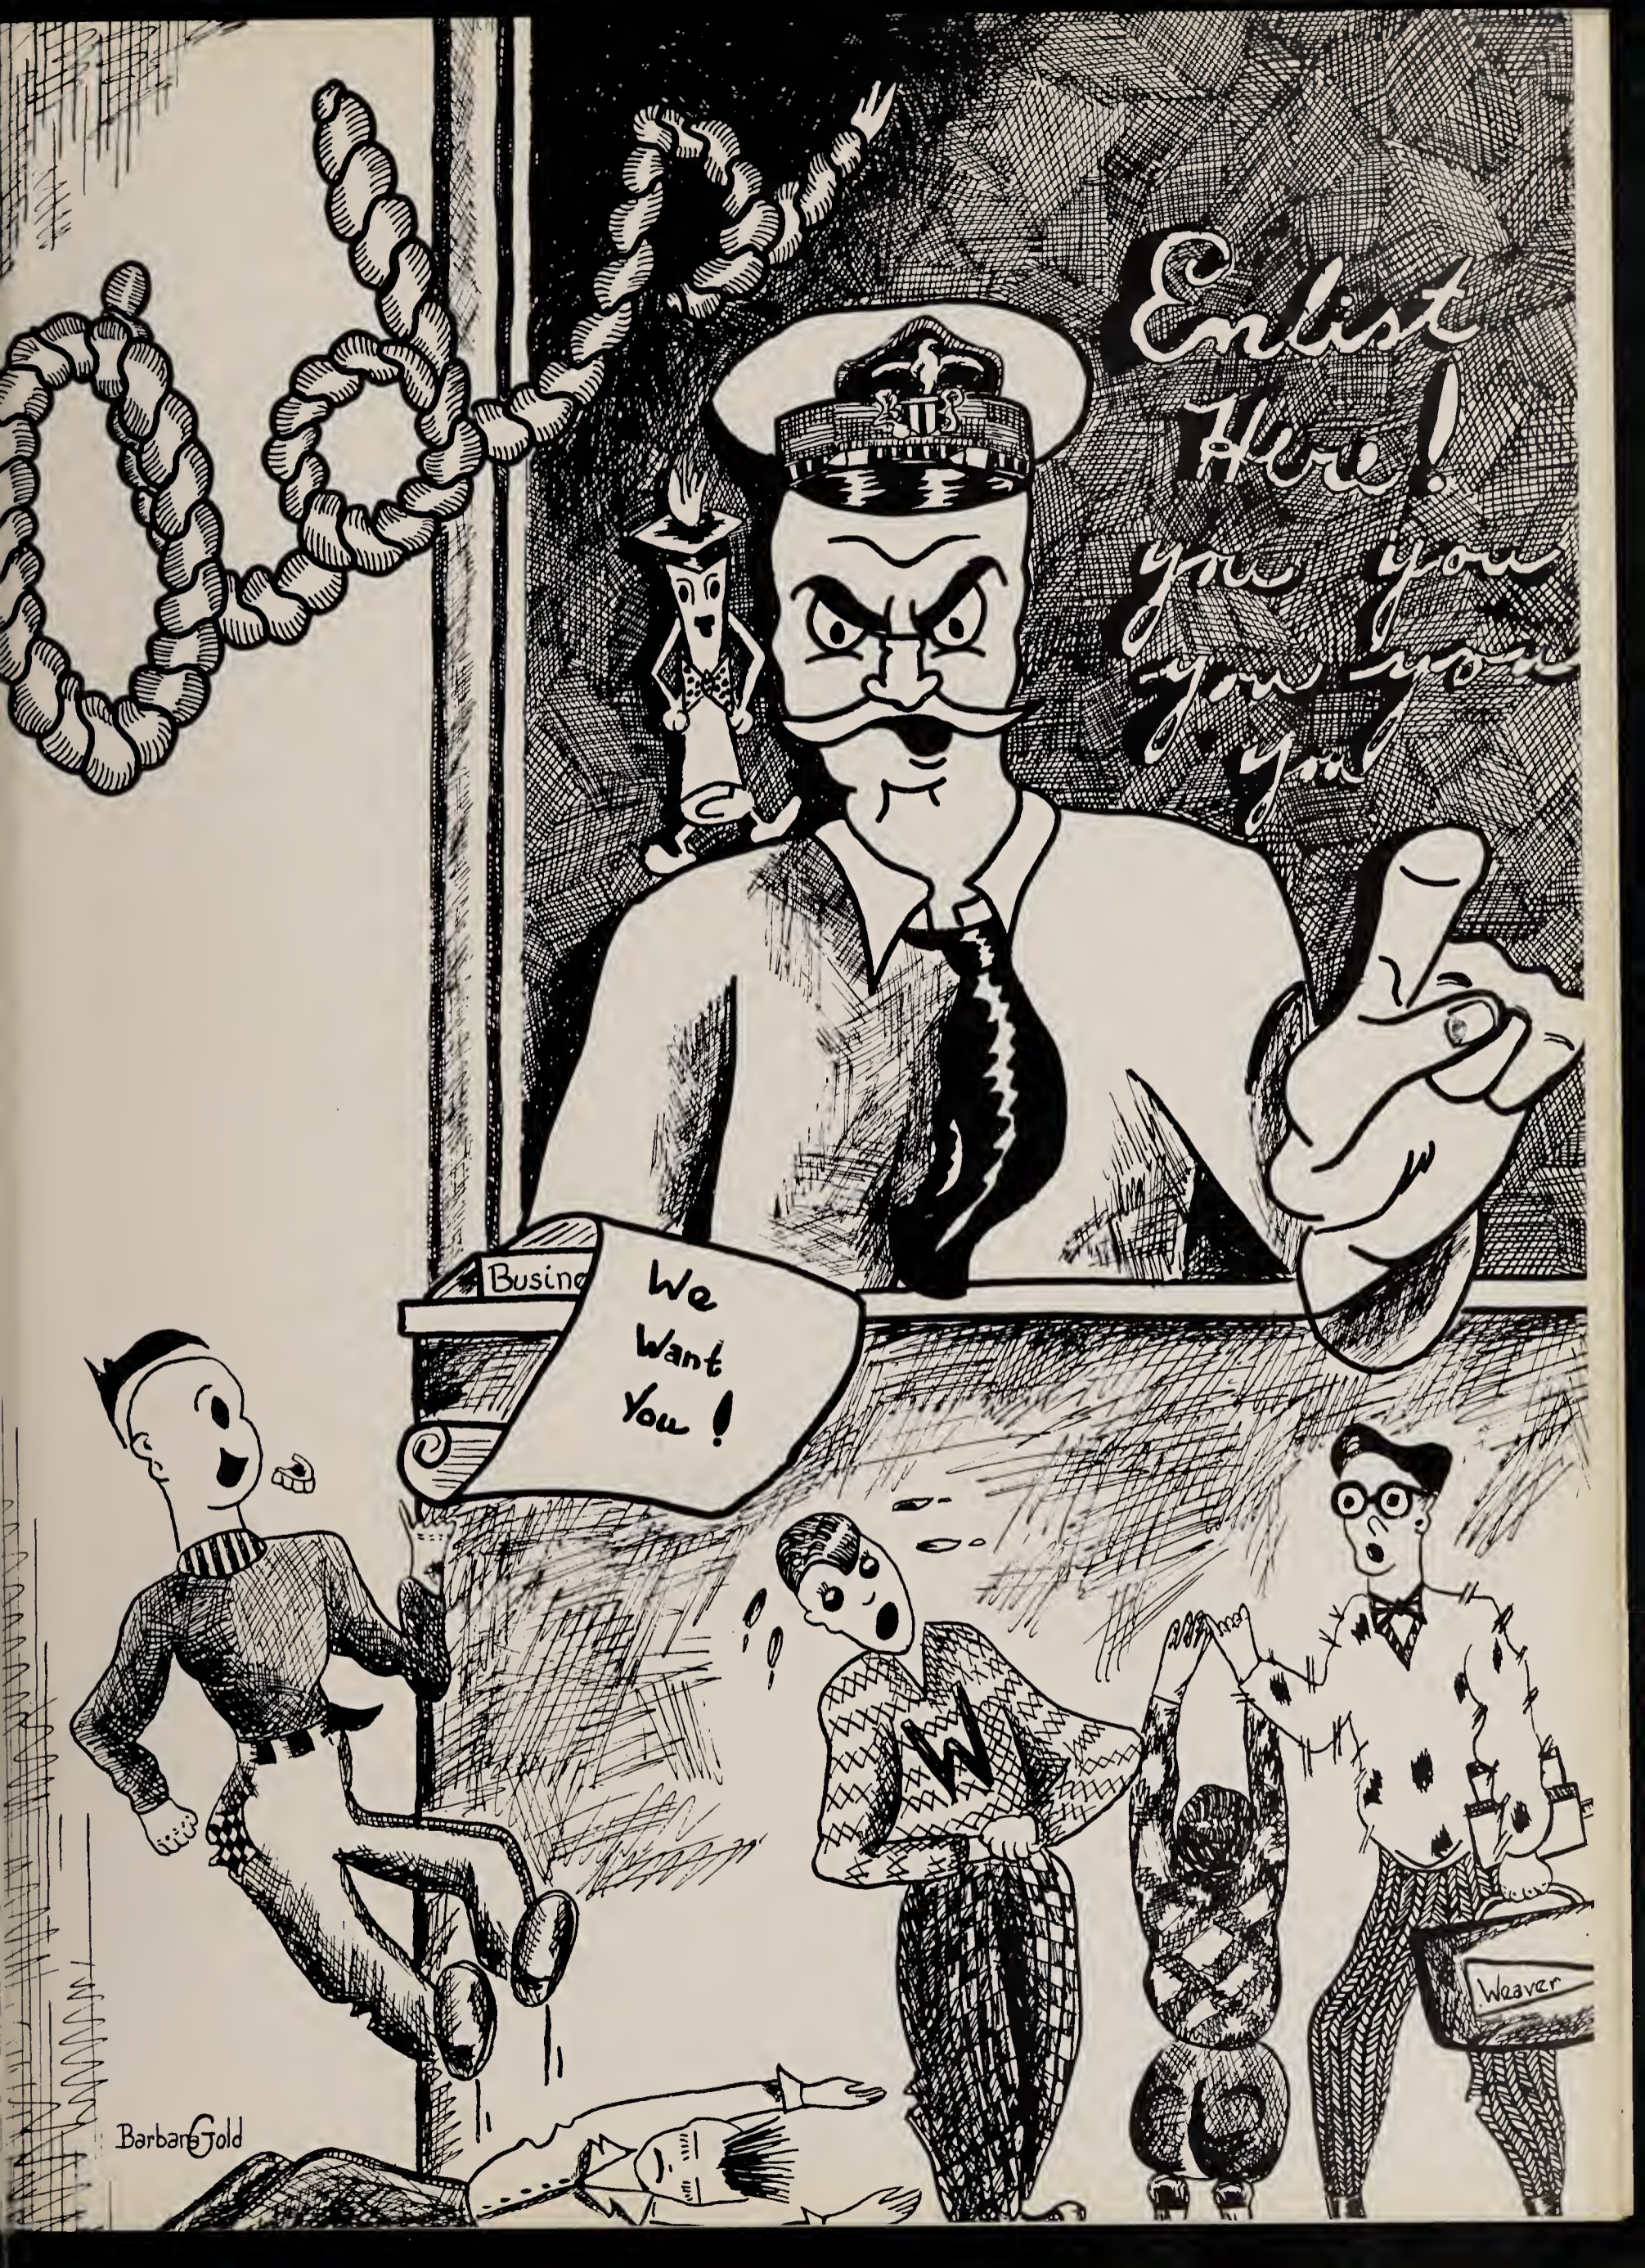

Miss Marion Case's senior typing classes, especially Elsie Ogle and Patricia Deacon, for invaluable assistance; and certainly Mr. John A. Alibrio, Business Advisor, and Mr. F. Eliot Larrabee, Editorial Advisor, without whose inspiring guidance, our efforts would never have been so fruitful.

"LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD"

One fine day, Little Red Riding Hood started out over the HYLANDS to her grandmother's house, as she did DALY. She carried a big basket in which were FISH, FRENCH-fried potatoes, ANGELO. As she FLITTEd on her way, she licked a big vanilla ice cream COHEN. It was a warm MAY morning, with sky BLUE, and the sun GOLDEN, and the ROBBINS singing in the OAKES.

As she started out, she passed ALLAIRE, in which the KING WOLFE of the forest dwelt. After he took a GANDZA at her, he raised his BROW, saying in DI MELLA voice of a SINGER: "Where are you going, DARLING?"

Red, summoning HURWITZ about her answered STERNly, "I must CAREY these goodies to grandmother's, just a STONE's throw NORTH."

So the WOLFE decided to go to grandmother's too, and being a CHAMPion runner, he took the WEST road and got there first. When he arrived, instead of YELLIN the way he usually did, he called out in a SATTINy tone, "KAMEN, dear."

After he had eaten, he frightened Red when he tried to CAESAR, and she called to a MILLER passing by. The man came BACHAND beat the WOLFE black and BLUE. Then he picked up Red to CARTER back to her home, safe and sound.

of leaving for the hall,
The last minute instructions
on how to stand up tall;
Then come unforgettable moments
of sitting on the stage,
Listening very closely

"NOT FOR SCHOOL, BUT FOR LIFE, WE LEARN"

Colonel Robert L. Scott, famous war ace with the Flying Tigers in China and author of "God is My Co-Pilot" was not much of a student, but had the ambition to become a pilot. And he discovered that in order to become a pilot, he must not only study but also learn what was in the books.
